THE FATE OF THE RED MAN, - History is repeating itself in the gradual wasting away of the aborigines of our country. A Jewish journal truly says, a weaker race which cannot amalgamate with a stronger one, and which will not serve it. is sure to become extinct. No human power can prevent it. There is an inherent antagonism between the nature of savage and civilized life which brings them into perpetual conflict, and the poor child of nature is utterly powerless against the arts of civilization. But if there were no wars, if the Indian was treated with truly Christian kindness, and all his rights were scrupulously respected, the final result would be the same. Settling upon lands specially reserved for them would not prevent their extinction, though it might postpone it. There are influences which, like heat and gravity, are constantly operating. which elude physical force, and which legislation cannot control, that would be wasting away the power of the weaker and increasing that of the stronger. Their numbers would diminish, and their lands would come into the possession of those who would cultivate them.

A LAKE SEA SERPENT. -The Utah Mining Journal has struck a real live sensation. A veritable sea serpent has been seen in Sevier Lake. He appeared to be about fifty feet long and from 15 to 20 feet in diameter, and, judging from the distance at which he was seen, he must have been at least double these dimensions. He reared his back in the shape of a bow above the water and seemed to be leisurely enjoying himself hugely. The Journal says the water of Sevier lake is as salt as that of the sea, and it asks: "Is it possible that when the ocean sank into the deep lakes, that only now remain in its former bed, that some of the whales and other monsters that infest the briny deep were left and still survive?" The salt in the Utah lakes, all agree, was carried to them from the mountains by tributary streams, and, there being no outin its former bed, that some of the whales lets, the salt accumulates while the water passes off by evaporation. But then, as we dislike to destroy your theory without furnishing another, you can say the monster dropped from the clouds in a present an abundance of galena and cop-"from shower" that will do as well

VALUABLE LETTER.-We give up considerable editorial space in this issue for and ac the letter from Iron City, Utah, which will doubtless be read with interest by all and considered valuable by the mining portion of the community. We have never underrated the importance to Pioche of the development of the mineral resources to the east of us in Utah, and regard to them, joining with him in urging capitalists thither to invest. With her immensity of coal and iron ores, imbedded side by side, and having the best natural advantages at hand for working them-wood, water and productive soil -Iron county, Utah, is destined to become a manufacturing district of great importance; and our correspondent seems to think the silver production in that direction will also be immense when the

Its Second Donation .- The Descret News says three-quarters of a ton of flour were donated to a band of Indians from northern Utah, who lately visited Salt Lake: and it adds "that is the way to do the fighting with Indians: Treat them well, never break faith with them, and they will then know that is to their best interests to be peaceable, and, as a general rule, they will maintain that kind of attitude." But as the flour was originally donated to the tithing office, and but Hill, we have it from the News, was born the latter donation has no magnanimity about it, as our staid and faithful cotemporary would have us believe.

THE Salt Lake Tribune commiserate with Corinne thus: "It certainly ought not to take a man with more than "half an eve" to see that the brethren are plotting against the business prosperity of Corinne, for with an immense mercantile establishment at Logan and the control of the Utah Northern to Montana, as they are now likely to have, what is to hinder immense commercial transactions between Montana and the Saints of Logan, for with goods as cheap at that place as at Corinne it is unlikely the Montana merchants will visit the latter city for the mere fan of the thing."

and Coal Mines Their Ines haustibility-The Silver Mines-Pinto and Belt Districts-Character of the Ores-A Call for Capital.

IRON COUNTY, Utah, May 12, 1873. For THE RECORD: The importance of Southern Utah to Pioche is so manifest, that a few items in relation to the mines cannot fail to prove of interest to your readers, though related in a crude and awkward way.

1st. Of the coal and iron, which are so abundant. The iron ores are of every variety known to mineralogy, are here to the extent that we are safe in saying they seem to be inexhaustible. All that is needed is enterprise and capital to to work them, and you can have this useful article to man's industries in abundance. The railroads of the Pacific coast can, and will in time, be supplied from them. The facilities for working are such that it seems to us we have superior advantages in producing iron—can produce it much cheaper than it can be produced anywhere else on the coast. Why they have been overlooked so long is inexplicable. Madam Rumor says that some of your citizens are about embarking in the enterprise, which will result in incalculable benefits to Picche and the envishment of themselves. Success we calculable benefits to Pioche and the enrichment of themselves. Success, we say, and God speed the day.

2d. The coal field, opened and now being developed by the Iron Company of Utah, lies on Pace Creek, near this place. The coal is of excellent quality, and is easy of access and extraction. I think your place will be supplied by teams before long, as several are talking of hauling coal instead of vegetables. The varieties are anthracite and a soft ligmite of most excellent quality, and, as far as used, have been found to burn well. of most excellent quality, and, as far as used, have been found to burn well. 3d. The district has, as a silver mining district, been almost deserted for the want of furnaces for the working of the ores. For the last three months I have devoted my whole time to prospecting, and can say truthfully that I have never seen ledges so abundant or so well de-fined as in Pinto and Silver Belt Mining Pinto, and embraces Bullion and Chlo-ride claims. The ores of each occur in quartzite and limestone, with conglom-erate. These ores on the surface (for we have nothing yet but surface work) present an abundance of galena and copper stains. The ledges in each are very large, judging from the out-crop, and are accompanied very often with black or heavy spar. They are easy of extraction and access, and yield from one ounce to three hundred ounces per ton. What they will do when opened to three or four hundred feet none can tell. Certain it is, that surface indications would warrant the undertaking. The few miners in the district are warm-hearted and liberal men, but are poor. They are liberal men, but are poor. They are anxious to have mills, and, that men of gladly publish the letter of "Senex" in offers are liberal; and all the men show a disposition to share the risk (if any,) in the enterprise. The advantages of an abundance of pasturage and of lumber. with (at places) a plentiful supply of water, all speak for the future of Pinto and Silver Belt Mining Districts. Who will come and see for themselves? They will find us at home, and, if not pleased, shall have a miner's welcome while with > Another Assay Office Demanded. The Salt Lake Tribune has a leading article urging the establishment of a Government assay office in Salt Lake. It says: "At present all the silver bars produced in this Territory as well as in Pioche, have to be shipped to New York to be assayed before the owners can get any return, and as this occupies some twenty or thirty days, the owner loses the interest on the value represented besides shipping charges, commissions,

The principal ground of the motion was that the Court erred in allowing the plaintiff to the fact of the marriage and the court erred in allowing the plaintiff to many before testify to the fact of the marriage cere-mony before an authorized clergyman without the production at the same time of the clergyman's certificate of the marof the clergyman's certificate of the marriage, or a certified copy thereof from the records of the County Recorder. The Judge decided the case by overruling the motion. His reasons for this were, substantially, that while a clergyman may neglect his duty in not keeping a record of the marriage, or sending a certified copy of the marriage certificate to the County Recorder, his failure to do so does not invalidate the legality of the marriage ceremony or render the marriage unlawful, null and void. The best evidence of the marriage is the direct testimony of those who were present when the contract was entered into, who, as sworn witnesses in the case, testify to as sworn witnesses in the case, testify the fact itself.

A GROST IN CHICAGO. —A case rivaling in mystery that which has recently been reported from San Francisco in regard to the "stigenats" has just been brought to notice in Chicago. The manifestations began last fall and continued till winter, and then were heard no longer until a few days ago. The inmates of the house of Tobias Goldschmidt, No. 317 South Park avenue, have long been disturbed by a persistent ringing at the door bell. A cressation of the trouble existed for a while, but on the eve of last Good Friday, and on anheadent nights, the family have been much disturbed. If no one goes to the door the mysterious visitor kicks and bangs away, but if anybody goes no one is to be seen. Police Sergeant Barrett has been called in to explain the mystery, but he has no explanation to offer. Every point at which fraud might show its horrid front has been guarded by the police, but still the ringing and general disturbance have been kept up. No longer ago than last Wednesday night the ringing was repeated, and strange and most unnatural sounds were heard, and nobody but the immate of the house could tell when they would end. That person said he would hear the last of them on May 1: but what a vacancy does he leave to be filled by some person who shall believe in the a vacancy does he leave to be filled by some person who shall believe in the mysterious workings of the infinite. The mysterious workings of the infinite. The Chicago reporters believe all that they report, and in this strange story they have had no notion of bringing up some-thing which may re-establish the repu-tation of their city after what has been done in San Francisco.

ANOTHER WAY .- Many theories have been There they communicated with the sup-ply steamer from Fort No. 1, thus prac-tically establishing a new base, within duty; but the best way yet to get out of the dilemma has been adopted by Judge Beatty. He proposes to excuse one-half of all active members of the fire department who may be drawn as jurors, and retain the other half.
